

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing apparatus according to the invention prevents communication with computers connected via a network from being uniformly

- 5 restricted, and restricts the communication with the computers in accordance with a kind of received data or a kind of data process.